MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb.

Vice-President, Women's Democratic Club of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell 81 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

'Nasal Catarrh' quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

ONE OF CUPID'S WAYS

The car that went to Overlook park was crowded; it usually was when there was a promise of a fine sunset.

Brooks gazed steadily from the window on the unpicturesque side of the car. Even when the passengers crowded to the other side to look into the valley far below them and at the mountains—mountains piled on top of mountains—he sat motionless.

As the Country club was passed he showed some interest.

It was Miss Hilderbrand's afternoon to pour tea there. Six months before, when Miss Hilderbrand had poured tea, Brooks sat on the clubhouse steps. The laughter of gay voices had drifted through the open windows to him. The club members seemed very gay. Brooks was a club member, but he was not gay.

An illness had sent him to the resort town to recuperate. Most of the hotel people belonged to the club, and he had joined. It seemed to him a good way to get rid of the time that hung so heavily on his hands. But he didn't care for golf, he couldn't dance, he knew so little of the new books and the old pictures, the thousand and one things they talked about. He was an alien. Looking up, he saw Miss Hilderbrand on the step above him.

Miss Hilderbrand was the leader of the fashionable set that ran the Country club. Her clothes were imitated, her speeches repeated.

Brooks had wondered that so reserved a woman could be so popular. He had noticed that the charm of distinction was in her high bred face, and then thought no more about her. Women were not much in his line either.

Miss Hilderbrand had smiled down on him and said that she wanted him to come in and drink tea with her. And when she smiled the question of her popularity was settled.

After that day Brooks became a real member of the club. The women left younger men to talk to him; the men slipped him on the back, invited him to drinks and voted him a fine old chap.

He began to enjoy the life and the new spirit of friendliness that pervaded the atmosphere. There was no more talk of leaving this circle of bright, pretty women and jolly fellows.

Brooks realized that he owed the change to Miss Hilderbrand. Once he asked her why she had taken him up, and she replied that she was sorry for lonely things.

Six months had made a new man of Brooks, and still he lingered.

'People had come and gone, as they do at resort hotels, but Miss Hilderbrand had not gone.

The afternoon had again come for her to pour tea for the club members, but she had sent her excuses.

Johnston, a friend and fellow citizen of hers, said that she had gone on the mountain to be alone and get a grip on herself; that a telegram had brought her bad news.

The car climbed slowly.

Brooks hadn't the slightest idea what the trouble was nor what assistance he could render. There was but one desire in his honest heart, and that was to help her. How he would do it hadn't been revealed, but with his usual directness, he had followed her to find out.

On the mountain top the band played, and gay groups of people moved in every direction.

Brooks came upon Miss Hilderbrand, solitary in the midst of the crowd. The glow of the sunset was on her, and as he came up she smiled unsteadily.

"I'm sorry you've heard it. I leave tomorrow. I hoped it would not be found out, but of course everybody will know."

"I'm not everybody," said Brooks stoutly. "I came because I want to comfort lonely things. What can I do?"

Miss Hilderbrand's glance went over Brooks' stout figure and came back to his clear eyes. The two faces were in sharp contrast—in his the rugged strength of a more simple civilization; in the girl's the suggestion of extreme culture.

"I'm glad you came," she said quite simply. "I'll like to remember it when I've become a dressmaker. That's what I've been up here deciding—what to do with myself now that the money's swept away. Dressmaking is my only real talent, and with another attempt at a smile, "I'm thought to be such an accomplished young woman."

"But there's McAdoo," Brooks spoke that name with difficulty. Among the men there was one he detested, and it was Miss Hilderbrand's fiancé. "Haven't you taken him into your arrangements?"

"He hasn't taken me into his arrangements," she said.

Brooks stared at her as though he had lost his senses.

"I've been jilted," she looked across the valleys filling with mist and not at Brooks.

"Habits are hard to break," she spoke to herself as much as to him. "It had gone on so long it was a habit. If we had cared for each other, we would have been married long ago."

She turned to Brooks. "But it hurts one's pride to be thrown overboard on the day one loses the money," she said. "I'm depressed at the dressmaking."

"How'd a companion do?" asked Brooks cautiously.

"Not at all," said the girl. "I've a mean temper."

"The old person has the disposition of a cherub."

"I can't read and I sing abominably."

"I wouldn't be required."

"What would?"

"Whatever pleased you."

"But," half petulantly, "I don't like old ladies."

"This is an old gentleman."

"I wouldn't do; highly improper."

"Oh, yes it would! It's eminently respectable," Brooks got to his feet and began speaking rapidly.

"Look here," he said, "I know you don't care for me, but you are the finest girl I ever saw. I'm too old to learn all your little tricks, but you won't expect much foolishness, never."

"And what would you gain?" Miss Hilderbrand asked the question when the silence had become audible. She had paused perceptibly.

"The right to make you happy," said Brooks.

The girl was silent. Her critical eyes saw Brooks, who was neither young nor handsome, at his best.

"Don't you think I wouldn't gain anything?" said the man. The silence was making him anxious.

"But you couldn't love me," he plaintively. "You think love nonsense, and women need it."

Brooks got possession of a hand not far away. "I could learn," he protested ardently.

"And everybody would say I married you for your money."

"Let 'em!" stoutly. "A lot of old gossips!"

Miss Hilderbrand drew her hand away.

"I couldn't consider it," she said. A certain mischief that was new to her was in her averted face. "I've just been jilted, and I would be so lonely while you were learning."

Brooks slipped his arm about her. They were away from the people, and, anyway, it didn't matter. He turned her face to meet his eager one.

"I don't have to learn. It's come to me. You don't say 'No.' Why, I love you like—like fury!" His voice thrilled with his earnestness.

The girl laughed contentedly.

"You are a nice old gentleman," she said, "even if you are forty. I haven't been asked about it, and I guess I shouldn't say so, but I'm awfully fond of you."

The Antiquity of the Cat.

It seems hard to believe that during all the long ages which passed between the dawn of civilization and the Christian era the Romans and Greeks should have been ignorant of the most familiar pet of our homes, the common cat.

Yet no fact seems established more clearly than this. Hahn in his "Vandenberg of Plants and Animals" has done upon it, and it has since been established by the united efforts of scholars and zoologists. We know now that our domestic favorite—with its winning, coy ways, uneasy when removed from man's society and yet never completely trusting it, with its mysterious old world air—was unknown to the chief nations of antiquity till after the Christian era.

It was the patient and gifted nation of the Nile valley that built the hall of columns at Karnak and that reared such colossal statues as that of Ramesses II, at Memphis, not to speak of the pyramids, that first tamed the cat. Hereditary antipathy as deep as that which reigns between the feline race and mankind does not die out in a generation. Countless years and many dynasties must have passed ere the wildest members of creation became the most faithful servants of mankind.

In Egypt we know that cats were regarded with veneration and embalmed and buried after their death.—London Academy.

He Wrote Books.

An English novelist tells an experience of a literary friend who went to the country in order to take a house on a farm. He saw the farmer and conducted the preliminary negotiations with perfect satisfaction to both sides.

Presently he asked, "Would you like some references?" "No, no," said the farmer gently. "You are a gentleman. I can see straightness and honesty written across your face. Don't bother about the references. I expect you want to get back to your business in the city."

The friend mentioned that he had no business in the city. "Oh, then," said the farmer, "I suppose you have business outside the city."

"No," he replied. "I am an author."

"What?" cried the farmer. "Not an author that writes books?" Yes, he admitted that he had written books. A look of doubt crept over the honest farmer's face. "Well, well," he said, "to turn back to the business we were talking about, I think, after all, mister, I'll have to trouble you for a couple of them references."

Tricks of Language.

Cunning in the use of language to make false impressions is a Yankee trick celebrated in song and story. Many instances of its use come to light in the testimony given in courts. An illustration of such dishonest craftiness is related by a Maine gentleman. A man came to him wanting him to buy a share in a country lottery in which the principal prize was a horse. "I'll take one," he said, "if you'll warrant me I shall draw the horse."

"Oh, yes," said the seller glibly, pocketing the cash. "I'll warrant you to get the horse."

The horse went in another direction, and the ticket holder, meeting the seller, said jokingly, "I thought you warranted me to draw that horse."

"Oh, no," said the other shrewdly; "I did not say warrant, but want. I said I wanted you to get the horse, and I did."

Perfect Respiration.

For perfect respiration two things are necessary—chest capacity and breath control. The average individual, woman especially, uses but a limited portion of the lungs and upper chest in ordinary breathing. Whenever a little unusual physical effort makes demand for an extra breathing capacity, note how she pulls and pants, almost to a point of gasping. The reason for this is that the muscles of the lower chest, waist and shoulders have become well nigh atrophied through neglect and abuse. They are stiff and unresponsive and have to be coaxed back to a condition of activity and obedience.

It is quite as possible to educate these muscles so that they shall respond to the slightest demand as it is that our hands are trained to do our bidding. Different teachers will advocate different forms of breathing—upper chest, side chest, lower chest and abnormal breathing—but what we most want is absolute control, such control of the muscles as shall enable us to make use of any desired form of breathing at the word of command, for perfect chest breathing is used most, but lower chest and abdominal breathing are very valuable in cases of nervousness, indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles.

The Truthful Pioneer.

"One day," said the truthful pioneer, "as I was checking up some wood down by the creek, and ten Indians loomed up. They were pretty thirsty even for Indians, and they said they knew I had a jug somewhere, and they wanted to sample it. I had a log about half split at the time, and the ax was sticking in it. I told them if they would help me get that log in two I would show them where the jug was. So they took hold, five on one side and five on the other, and pulled. And when I took the ax out the log sprung together and held them all by the fingers. Then I walked away to the house and loaded the shotgun and three or four pistols and then went back and argued with them, and they reformed right away."

This story, says the Nebraska State Journal, was originally told of Daniel Boone or Davy Crockett and has done good service ever since. It is not copyrighted, however, and there is no good reason why Nebraska pioneers should not use it.

The Wild Giraffe.

Perhaps the most difficult of all wild animals to capture is the giraffe. In addition to being very rare giraffes are exceedingly timid and are very swift footed. There is no special way to capture a giraffe, as almost every way has been tried, and all have been almost equally unsuccessful. The method which has occasionally resulted in a capture is by using a long cord, at each end of which is a round weight. This cord is thrown by the hunter in such a manner as to wind round the animal's legs, either bringing it to the ground or rendering it incapable of escaping before it is made a prisoner. Most of the giraffes in captivity have been caught by chance when young.

Love-making in Mexico.

In northwest Mexico the courting is all done by the lady. The young people meet at the feasts, and there the damsel who has selected upon a member of the opposite sex whom she wishes to become her husband tries to attract his attention by dancing before him, persistently keeping her back turned toward him. Eventually she may sit down near him and pull his blanket and sing to him in a gentle, low voice. When she desires to bring matters to a focus, she begins to throw pebbles at the chosen one. If he throws them back at her, they are betrothed.

Half-Wick.

Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is indigestion of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

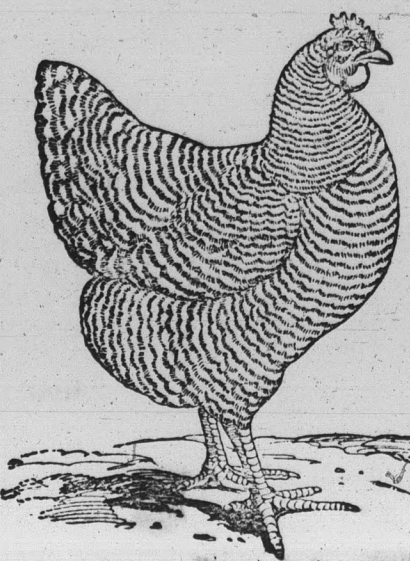

I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith of Granite, Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicines, which I did with good results. Only used four boxes of your Golden Medical Discovery, and, must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

Control Your Hens.

To make hens pay you must make hens lay. An egg that measures 6 1/2 inches by 7 1/2 inches w. s. laid by a hen fed on COULSON'S EGG FOOD.

COULSON'S Egg Food makes hens lay because it contains all the most egg-producing articles known to science to-day. There is no excuse for any one now-a-days not being able to make the hens lay abundantly. Of course a hen cannot make eggs out of nothing. The richer and better egg-producing food one can give the hens, the more they will lay. There are some certain articles necessary to make hens lay that most people neglect to give them.

Coulson's Balanced Ration Egg Food

Contains the right kind of rich meals that a hen can easily digest and turn into eggs. One man feeds $2.15 worth of this feed every day and gets back near 600 eggs from the hens. This is proof that you can feed COULSON'S EGG FOOD and make a profit from your hens. Testimonials coming in every day. Trade increasing every day.

Come and let us show you all of the good rich meals that make this food. It takes sixteen different articles, and each must be a certain proportion. We prepare this food so that it is already mixed ready to feed as the morning mash and we will sell it to you at factory prices, giving you a good chance to make some money out of your hens for if you feed this food according to directions you will certainly get plenty of eggs every day.

A big sack $1.65; 5-sack lots, $1.55; 10-sack lots, $1.50; 100 sack lots, $1.45. Prepared by Cannot Trifle with all the People all the Time.

THE City Trustees meet again next Wednesday evening in regular monthly session. The people of this municipality now have their eyes on Julius Poppe, the President of the Board, and it remains to be seen whether or not as the presiding officer of that body he will, in defiance of the law and his oath of office, again refuse to put a motion, that has been properly made and seconded, to the house, as he did at the March meeting and duly recorded in the minute book of the City Trustees. On that occasion Trustees Hotz, Ciucci and Pinelli, constituting a majority of the Board, sought to have the five so-called Meridian hydro-carbon arc street lights, which had been set up for a month's trial only, removed, as they were found after a thorough trial to be unsatisfactory for street lighting purposes. In order to have these five street lights, valued at $500 by those who sought to foist them on the city, returned to the company that set them up here on trial, and thus relieve the city of further responsibility in the matter, Trustee Hotz very properly moved that, having served their purpose, they be taken down and returned to the owners. The motion was duly seconded by Trustee Ciucci. At this juncture of the proceedings presiding officer Poppe refused point blank to put the question, thus casting parliamentary rules, his oath of office and common decency to the winds.

By this action the executive officer of the Board of City Trustees not only set at defiance the wishes of his fellow members, if we except Trustee Breitenbach, but also the wishes of the people, whose servant he is supposed to be.

As before remarked, it now remains to be seen what President Poppe's antics will be at the meeting next Wednesday evening. If he still persists in the course that he has so recklessly mapped out we would suggest that he be mandamus, brought into court and made to understand that he has been chosen President of the Board of City Trustee to see that our municipal laws are strictly adhered to and the wishes of the people obeyed. It would be a wholesome lesson to him. City Trustee Poppe may trifle with the people some of the time, he may even trifle with some people all the time, but he cannot trifle with all the people all the time.

SUPERIOR COURT NOTES.

In Judge Seawell's department of the Superior Court on Monday the will of the late Jacob Zinser was admitted to probate and C. A. Hoffer was appointed executor without bonds.

The final account of the estate of Benjamin Harrington was settled and distribution ordered. A sale of Miss Mary Ellen Slater's property was confirmed to Robert O'Connor for $2,115.

The matter of the estate of Somers B. Fulton was transferred to Department Two.

Mrs. Huldah N. Harrington was appointed guardian of the estates of J. O. Harrington and others, in a bond of $3,000 to each minor.

A sale of property of the estate of Mary McMenamin was confirmed to H. M. Forsyth for $3,250.

These matters were continued to May 4: Estates of J. B. Trapet, R. G. Lyttaker, Clifford E. Merritt, Elizabeth Weston; estate of Lillian Burger, et al to May 11.

Default was entered in the action of Charlotte Gilbride against Roger Gilbride and the matter was referred to the Court Commissioner.

The demurrer was withdrawn and five days allowed to answer in the action of the Bank of Cloverdale against Williams and others.

The motion for a change of venue in the action of L. W. Burris against Flannigan and others, was denied.

The civil matters continued were: Gagliardo vs. Gagliardo, to May 25; Italian-Swiss Colony vs. Joseph Purrrington, to May 5; Meeker vs. Schuster, to May 20.

The final account of the estate of George Hammy was allowed.

An order of sale of real property of the estate of Walter Spridgen was granted. The sale will be private.

The trial of Conn vs. Santa Rosa Bank was set for April 29.

In Judge Burnett's department a stay of execution for five days was granted in the matter of the order to recount the votes cast for city treasurer in which C. M. Bumbaugh is plaintiff and the City of Roses defendant.

In the trial of the action of the Savings Bank vs. Guimares et al default was entered.

The trial of Joseph Jacinto vs. Mary Jacinto was continued to May 4.

THE PASSING OF AN OLD PIONEER.

Capt. Jno. O. McKinnon, Who Came to California in 1848, is Dead.

Capt. Jno. O. McKinnon, a pioneer resident of California, died at his home in this place last Thursday night.

Capt. McKinnon first came to California in 1848 on a whaler. He returned to his home in St. John, New Brunswick, shortly before the discovery of gold, but returned to California in January, 1853, as first officer of the clipper ship "Westward Ho!" He then gave up seafaring life and settled in San Francisco, and was engaged in supplying water to ships in that harbor long before the Spring Valley Water Works were in existence.

About fourteen years ago he came to Sonoma and took up a permanent residence here, leading a very retired life.

He leaves a bereaved widow, Mrs. Olive J. McKinnon, and two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Middlem of Alameda and Mrs. Edmund Munfrey of this place, seven grandsons, one granddaughter, one great granddaughter and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

Capt. McKinnon was a native of St. John, New Brunswick, and aged 83 years.

The funeral will take place this morning at 11 o'clock from the Congregational Church. The remains will be laid to rest in the Mountain Cemetery.

Brief Mention.

The Equal Right Association will meet next Saturday, May 9th, at the home of Mrs. Robt. Poppe. A full attendance is desired.

F. T. Duhring was called to Santa Rosa yesterday as a Grand Jury witness before the Superior Court.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by F. Duhring.

TABLE TALK OVER THE COFFEE.

The talk that evening began with the fact of the "Vegetarians" and their beliefs. It soon developed that the beautiful Miss Schuyler thought herself a "Vegetarian." "But," said Dr. Smith, "what do you eat?" "All kinds of vegetables and fruit," said she, "then I drink milk, have eggs for breakfast, besides at other meals I eat butter, pudding, cheese and cake, and tell every one they ought to do as I do, I feel so much better." The doctor looked astonished. "And you call that vegetarian? My dear young woman don't you know that butter, eggs and milk are animal foods? Then, too, it is a mistake to urge others to follow you. What is good for you may not be good for others. The Eskimo of the Arctic regions couldn't support life on a vegetable diet. Some animal food is necessary to keep heat in his body. On the other hand, besides the individual peculiarities and the climate, the conditions under which each person lives, would make it a mistake for you to recommend to everybody to follow your example." "At the same time," continued the doctor, "I have come to the conclusion that fully one-half of the chronic complaints which embitter life are due to stomach disorders which could just as well be avoided." "Now," Dr. Smith, interrupted Miss Schuyler, "I know you're going to tell us all just what to do and that when our stomach begins to trouble us and we have dyspepsia or what not, we are all to march in line, one after the other, into your office and have our stomach pumped out. No thank you, I tried that when I had dyspepsia, heart palpitations and dizzy spells so bad I thought I'd go mad, and then when I struck the pump treat-out I thought I'd go madder! But fortunately just about that time I saw something in the paper which made me stop and think. I said, if hundreds of others can be cured by such simple treatment as taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery three times a day, I think I'll try. I did try, and in two months I was sound and well again—without those horrid stomach pumps, and then best of all, I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., and asked his advice in my case, and he told me how to care for myself, how to exercise, diet, etc., and that didn't cost me a cent. Then I bought his book, the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' and now I know just exactly how to live to be a hundred in the shade."

"I can't dispute your statement, for it is undoubtedly true," said the doctor. "I have seen many cases in my practice of dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach cured by that 'Discovery' of Dr. Pierce. It seems to assist in the digestion and assimilation of the food in the stomach, and not only that but it builds up the general health by enriching the blood and stimulating the liver into healthy action. Nervous feelings of despondency and the blues are done away with because the nerves are fed on rich pure blood and they no longer cry out for their proper food. No man or woman can be strong or feel happy who is suffering from indigestion, because when the stomach is diseased there's a diminution of the red corpuscles of the blood—this is why one don't sleep well, is languid, nervous and irritable." The World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., the proprietors and manufacturers of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, are willing to

"Words cannot express what I suffered for three years from the effects of a torpid liver," writes Jas. E. Hawkins, Esq., President Order of the Circle, No. 41, of America, Box 103, St. Louis, Mo. "I had but known of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' sooner what misery I might have been spared. I was bilious, tongue was coated, appetite poor, and I had frequent distressing pains in the side and under shoulder-blades, but within a week after I commenced Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery there was a marked change for the better, so I kept on using it, three times a day, for over a month, with an occasional dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to regulate the bowels, and the results were all and more than I could wish. My appetite is splendid—I feel ten years younger, and am entirely free from pain of any kind. Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is certainly all that its name implies, and I gratefully endorse it."

Mrs. Alice Everly, of Creedsville, Ohio, says: "Sometime ago I wrote you in regard my case, asking your advice, also what I needed in the medicine line. The advice came promptly and after following your directions I find myself entirely relieved of any distressing symptoms of my old troubles, and feel as if I'm cured. I had liver complaint and indigestion of the bowels. Took eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Your remedies have proven very satisfactory in my case, and I am delighted to be my old self once more. I thank you for your good and valuable advice, which was so promptly given. My husband is taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also feels that it is doing him good. One thing we are very positive of, is that it will give a wholesome appetite when all else fails."

Historical Sonoma Mission Buildings.

Movement Inaugurated to Restore and Preserve the Primitive Structures.

The Old Mission buildings in this place are to be restored and preserved. W. R. Hearst of the Examiner has headed a subscription list with a donation of $500 for that purpose. That this list will be rapidly added to by other donations and that this movement to preserve this and other historical landmarks associated with the early history of California, will now be successful does not admit of a doubt. It now remains to be seen to what extent the people of this State, and its Native Sons in particular, will assist in furthering this laudable undertaking.

Few of the old historical buildings of California are now standing. These are being neglected and are slowly but surely crumbling away. Of these the San Francisco Solano Mission buildings in this place, now vested in private ownership and used as a hay barn and for the storage of wine casks, are the most notable. The walls of these structures are of adobe and three feet in thickness and even to their tiled roofs are in a fair state of preservation although the hand of Time is discernible in every nook and cranny of these ancient places of worship.

It is the idea of those who have taken hold of this matter to beautify the grounds surrounding these ancient structures and make them attractive to the eye, and the buildings themselves will be zealously guarded and preserved in all their primitiveness.

San Antonio, Texas, has its

"Alamo," where Travers, Crockett and Bowie, those gallant pioneers of the Lone Star State, fought, bled and died for their country. Sonoma has its old Mission buildings, where the good padres of the early days heroically underwent all the hardships of a life in what was then an unknown wilderness that they might teach the untutored Indian the lesson of the meek and lowly Nazarine and pave the way to a future civilization.

If Texas has preserved its Alamo to be visited and viewed with awe by thousands from abroad annually, how much more fitting were it that California restore and preserve its old Mission buildings that they, too, may receive due homage from the present generation and those that are to follow along the corridors of Time.

WILL CELEBRATE

INDEPENDENCE DAY

The Woman's Club Have Taken Hold of the Matter.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club, held last Monday afternoon, it was unanimously decided to celebrate the coming Fourth of July on the Sonoma Plaza under the auspices of the club.

The following committees were then appointed by Mrs. Stearns, the President, to take charge of the celebration:

Parade—Mrs. G. H. Hotz, Mrs. Pauline McMullin and Mrs. J. P. Weems.

Ball in the evening—Miss Doris Clewe, Miss Louisa Rufus, Mrs. G. D. Rich, Mrs. Pauline McMullin and Mrs. H. W. Gottengberg.

Mrs. Hotz and Mrs. McMullin made a preliminary canvass last Monday to raise funds to help defray the expenses of the celebration and in an incredible short space of time succeeded in securing $114 in donations. In order to make the celebration a success several hundred dollars will have to be raised but the necessary funds will be forthcoming when a thorough canvass of the town and valley is made by the ladies.

The principal features of the celebration will be an imposing parade headed by a brass band, literary exercises, athletics, baseball games, dancing, a basket picnic in the Plaza and a grand ball at Union Hall in the evening.

Surprise Party.

Pretty Miss Hazel Gies was tendered a surprise party last Monday evening by her friends and school mates. The home of Miss Ruth Poppe was chosen as the meeting place and eight o'clock the meeting hour for the surprises to assemble. Shortly after the young people proceeded to the home of Miss Gies on Spain street. When responding to a ring of the door bell Miss Gies was completely bewildered to find herself surrounded by a jolly crowd of young friends. The surprise was so complete that it took several seconds before Miss Gies fully realized what had happened but she soon learned that she was the object of a surprise and was escorted by her many friends to Weyl's Hall which was artistically decorated for the occasion. The Pauli orchestra furnished the music for dancing and a merry time was had by all. At 12 o'clock a dainty spread was partaken of after which dancing was resumed until 1:30 A. M.

Turned Up in this Valley.

Harold Pauli, aged eighteen years and well-known in this valley, created quite a commotion at his home in San Francisco by suddenly disappearing last Saturday. He left home at seven o'clock in the morning on his way to the office of the California Wine Association where he was to go to work. He failed to show up at the office and late in the evening his brother Clayton Pauli reported his disappearance to the police. The lad was in this valley last Sunday and evidently came up here immediately after leaving his home on the morning of his disappearance.

Runaway and Smash-up.

Geo. Bullotti, the plumber, while driving in his spring wagon last Monday morning had a narrow escape from serious injury. His horse ran away on Napa street and became uncontrollable. The wheels of the wagon collided with the sidewalk curbing near the grammar school and the impact threw him out of the vehicle, the wheels passing over his legs. Fortunately he escaped with slight bruises but the light wagon was badly wrecked.

Odd Fellow's Entertain.

Several hundred invitations were issued by the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows to their entertainment and hop, which took place in Union Hall on Friday evening of last week. A fine literary program, which had been carefully prepared for the occasion, was heartily enjoyed by the invited guests. Mr. Drees of Petaluma addressed the audience. He chose Odd Fellowship as his subject and it was well handled.

At the conclusion of the programme dancing was announced and old as well as young joined in "tripping the light fantastic." This delightful affair came to an end at 12:30 and in every way was the social success of the season.

Suffered Eight Months.

I can heartily recommend Acker's Tablets for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I have been suffering for eight months and tried many remedies without any relief, until I got Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets, which I used only a short time and am now perfectly well. Mrs. Hannah Merlin Jones and daughter of Glen Ellen spent last Monday in Santa Rosa.

Mr. Rex E. Ford is the guest of his family at Locust Grove after an absence of several months.

Miss Emma Huger of Petaluma is the guest of Miss Grace Lawler at her village home in Schellville.

Rev. C. C. Kirtland, pastor of the Congregational Church, conducted services in Sebastopol last Sunday.

Mr. Harry Dahler and Miss Amy Hammond of San Francisco were the guests of Miss Zarifa Howe last Sunday.

Miss Eva Church returned home Wednesday evening after a visit of several weeks with San Francisco relatives.

Miss Eastman has returned to her home in San Francisco after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Nickerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cummings and infant daughter have returned to their home in Willits, Mendocino county.

Mrs. J. H. Wicker returned to her home in San Francisco Tuesday after a week spent at her old Sonoma home on Ivy farm.

Nick Codiga, who has been conducting a shoe shop in this place for a number of years, has gone with his family to Santa Cruz, where he will engage in the hotel business.

Miss Ella Bethune left for Europe Thursday for an extended visit in Scotland and England. She is accompanied by a party of friends and during her absence will be the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Carrie Burlingame of San Francisco is in town and will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Appleton for a week or two when she expects to leave for Seattle, where she will spend the summer.

The Marriage of Stewart Elliott.

Stewart Elliott, formerly of this place, and son of the late Lieutenant Commander Elliott on one of Admiral Dewey's fleet of warships operating in Manila Bay during the Spanish-American war, whose engagement was announced in these columns several weeks ago, was married to Miss Beatrice Welsh of Stockton last Wednesday. The wedding took place in that city in St. John's Episcopal Church, Rev. Alfred Clark officiating.

It is said that there is a little romance connected with the nuptials. The bride's father, J. M. Welsh, manager of the Stockton Milling Company, and a man of means, made a trip around the world with his family two or three years ago, and among other places he visited Manila, where Miss Welsh and young Elliott met for the first time, he having enlisted as a volunteer at the outbreak of hostilities between the United States and Spain and with his company was sent to the Philippines. At the time he met his bride he had served out the term of his enlistment and was in the Government service as a civilian.

Free Circulating Library.

The Federation of Womens' Clubs of California has set up in this place a free circulating library in which most of the works of the standard authors are represented. The library has been housed in the home of Mr. W. O. Hoeker, principal of our Grammar School, who very generously tendered his services gratis as librarian. Books will be furnished to the general public from this library upon application to Mr. Hoeker.

Mrs. E. M. Cutler visited friends in Sonoma the fore part of the week.

Geo. Cornish has finished his vacation and returned to his work in Maderia.

Leo Justi, who has been at Ruthford several weeks on business, is again at home.

Mrs. A. E. Gaige, accompanied by Miss Shirley Cornish, visited Santa Rosa Tuesday.

Mrs. Skahan, our wide awake lady merchant, transacted business in Santa Rosa Tuesday.

Mrs. G. H. Hoag is attending to the Postoffice during Mr. Poppe's absence in Bakersfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Poppe are spending the week at Bakersfield attending the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons.

Mrs. A. McIntyre and her two charming daughters have come to spend the summer in their beautiful country home on O'Donnell avenue.

A jolly party consisting of Dr. and Mrs. O'Donnell, Mrs. W. L. Ashe, Mrs. A. McIntyre and two daughters took a pleasant drive in their surreys to Sonoma Wednesday.

Mr. Suttentfield, who for many years was book-keeper at the California Home, has returned to take his old position again. The family will reside in a cottage on O'Donnell avenue.

We have the brightest prospects imaginable for an early and prosperous season. Mrs. O'Donnell has her forty-five cottages already rented for the season and a large number of cabins have also been engaged for the summer.

Julius Martens is back at his old stand again looking bright and well after his long rest from business. We chaps are all happy to have him around once more. The town never seems the same without his jolly, cheerful presence. Every one has a word of praise for him.

The Dunbar Improvement Club held its usual monthly meeting last Saturday afternoon. No new business came up. The prospect of speedily enjoying the privileges of a rural delivery are very promising. Senator Perkins now has the petition in his hands and will give it his personal influence and approval.

The exterior of the Cottage Hotel has been repainted and all the rooms painted and papered in fine style. Everything is as fresh and bright as a new pin and ready for the rush of visitors we are sure to have. This is one of the prettiest hotels in the valley and quiet and restful to the seekers of health. Mr. and Mrs. Gender know how to cater to the needs of their guests. None can surpass them in this respect and they are very well known and popular with the traveling public and understand the hotel business to perfection.

H. C. Whiting, General Manager of the California Northwestern, R. X. Ryan, General Passenger Agent, Thos. Mellers, Controller, and F. K. Zook, Superintendent, visited last Tuesday. In the near future they intend to make great improvements to their property here. They design building a new depot on the north side of their grounds, which will be much more commodious than their present quarters, and where the old depot now stands the grounds will be planted in trees for a park and a noble flagstaff erected, where the star spangled banner will have no cause to blush over its surroundings as the grounds will be kept in a neat and beautiful condition free from rubbish of all kinds.

It is wonderful how rapidly the new brick yard plant is progressing. Forty experienced brick-makers from Remillard's brick plant near San Rafael, which is closed down for lack of material, have been engaged. By next Monday Dr. O'Donnell, the owner of the plant, expects to be turning out forty thousand bricks per day. The clay here is of the finest quality and inexhaustible. Most of it is suitable for terra cotta bricks, which are in great demand at a good price. The clay is also suitable for fire brick and just the thing for bank vault bricks and numerous other purposes. Experts declare there is no clay in the United States that will begin to compare with it. It is very encouraging to see the promised Glen Ellen prosperity so rapidly materializing. We are going right ahead. This is but the beginning of a boom that has come to stay. The gold mines are also walking right along. The giant powder is daily doing its work and the bright yellow gold is brought to light. We shall soon have it in circulation.

Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of cholera or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept on hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon.
